"Unleashing Creativity: Postcard Writing to Teachers"

On the occasion of Teachers' Day, a special tradition followed in many educational institutions where college students often reach out to their former school teachers to express gratitude and appreciation. One effective and heartfelt way to do this is through postcard writing. This report explores the implementation, benefits, and challenges associated with college students writing postcards to their previous school teachers on this occasion. The key objectives of this event initiative includes:

- Acknowledging: Recognizing and appreciating the impact of teachers on students' academic and personal growth.
- Strengthening Connections: Maintaining and nurturing the bond between students and their former educators.
- Reflecting: Allowing students to reflect on their educational journey and the role their teachers played in it and thanking them for their efforts.

The students of our Institute (B.Com, I.M.Com and M.Com) were given the post card during and they wrote to their faculties, teachers or guardian whom so ever they wanted to thank. Later they were asked to post it. Very good response from students was there. During this activity students were able to learn about communication skills, writing skills, Relationship Strengthening. It also provided college a positive networking.
