

A Report on Pharma Rally on the occasion of World Pharmacist Day

On the occasion of World Pharmacist Day, a Pharma Rally was successfully organized by Dr. Chuniabhai Vallabhbhai Patel College of Pharmacy under the aegis of the National Service Scheme (NSS) Cell. The event was conducted with the objective of creating awareness among the general public about the vital role of pharmacists in healthcare and promoting rational use of medicines.

The rally was held in the nearby Tarsadi village and witnessed enthusiastic participation from approximately 100 pharmacy students. The students actively took part in spreading messages related to public health, safe medication practices, the importance of consulting qualified pharmacists, and adherence to prescribed therapies. Placards, banners, and slogans highlighting the theme of World Pharmacist Day were displayed throughout the rally, drawing attention from villagers and passersby.

The event commenced with a brief orientation by the NSS coordinator, emphasizing the significance of World Pharmacist Day and the responsibility of future pharmacists towards society. Students marched through the main areas of the village in an orderly manner, interacting with local residents and explaining the importance of pharmacists in disease prevention, patient counseling, and healthcare delivery.

The rally received a positive response from the community, and villagers appreciated the efforts of the students in disseminating valuable health-related information. The event helped students develop social responsibility, communication skills, and a sense of service toward the community.

Overall, the Pharma Rally was a meaningful and impactful activity that successfully fulfilled its objectives. It reinforced the role of pharmacists as accessible healthcare professionals and highlighted the commitment of Dr. Chunibhai Vallabhbhai Patel College of Pharmacy and its NSS unit towards community welfare and public health awareness.
